Textures of Canned Cat Food
Chunky	This type immerses chunks of protein in varying sizes in a sauce or gravy. You can also find small shreds of meat throughout the sauce.
Flaked	Thin, long, flat pieces of fish most commonly served in broth.
Gelee/Aspic	Savory clear jelly like substance that binds to the food and protects it.
Gravies	There are small pieces of protein that are cut in a different set of shapes and sizes in a thick gravy base.
Minced	Protein is chopped into tiny, crumble-like pieces.
Morsels/Cubed	Protein chunks that are typically cubed shaped and served in sauce or gravy. Morsels are slightly larger than protein pieces in gravies.
Mousse/Puree	Mousse/Puree cat foods are light, creamy, and have a smooth-as-silk texture. They have a similar texture as puree baby food. In some cases, the puree can be jelly like.
Pate	Pates are a type of food that has a very smooth, uniform consistency that is spreadable. Pate can range from a creamy puree like consistency to a firmer loaf consistency. This can vary from brand to formula.
Shredded	Consists of thin, long pieces of meat in varying widths typically served in a sauce or gravy.
Sliced	Wider, longer, and flatter protein pieces typically served in sauce or gravy. The protein pieces are all of the same size.
Stew	Small chunks of protein surrounded by a gravy or broth. Most often you can see pieces of ingredients like carrots, peas, and potatoes.
